Empowering Communities Through Compassion:

The Qurbani Impact by Human Concern USA

Qurbani, also known as Udhiyah, is the Islamic practice of sacrificing an animal during Eid al-Adha to commemorate Prophet Ibrahim's (AS) willingness to sacrifice his son for Allah. The meat is distributed among family, friends, and the less fortunate, highlighting charity and community.

This Qurbani Impact Report by Human Concern USA provides a comprehensive overview of the distribution of meat packages and Eid gifts to vulnerable families and children across various locations and countries during Eid Al-Adha. Our primary focus was on target groups such as households led by women and children, those with disabilities, and families facing food insecurity. By providing Qurbani meat, we aimed to address their fundamental nutritional requirements and enhance their overall welfare, reflecting our commitment to compassionately nourishing and supporting these communities during significant religious observances. This initiative fosters kindness, empathy, and solidarity among less fortunate communities.

Key Outcomes:

Nutritional Support:

The distribution of meat packages ensured that families experiencing food insecurity had access to a vital source of nutrition. The protein provided by the Qurbani meat is essential for maintaining health, especially in households with scarce nutrients.

Eid Gifts for Children:

In addition to meeting nutritional needs, the distribution of Eid gifts brought joy and a sense of inclusion to children who might not have had the opportunity to partake in the celebrations. These gifts created a festive atmosphere and allowed children to experience the happiness and excitement associated with Eid Al-Adha.

Focus on Marginalized Groups:

Our focus on households led by women or children and those with disabilities underscores our commitment to reaching some of the most marginalized and at-risk groups. Women-led households often face unique challenges, including economic hardship and limited resource access. By specifically targeting these groups, we aim to empower them and provide much-needed support.

Community Engagement:

The report illustrates how our Qurbani initiative goes beyond immediate relief. By engaging local communities and fostering a sense of shared purpose, we help build stronger, more resilient communities. This initiative encourages a culture of giving and solidarity, where community members are inspired to support one another.

Overall, the Qurbani Impact Report demonstrates the tangible benefits of our efforts and the positive impact on the lives of vulnerable families and children. Through compassion, empathy, and a commitment to service, we strive to make a meaningful difference, not only during Eid Al-Adha but throughout the year. Our work reflects the core values of Human Concern USA and our dedication to improving the well-being of those in need.

> Supporting women-led households, children, and those with disabilities. Building stronger communities through compassion and solidarity.
